3.3 The amount of Marine Fuels to be supplied will be measured, determined and calculated by the Contracting Company with the aid of its supply equipment and measurement appliances according to the generally accepted methods.

3.4 The Buyer is absolutely and exclusively responsible for the choice and description of the grade of Marine Fuels for each delivery from the range of fuels supplied by the Contracting Company at the location in question, while the Marine Fuels to be supplied must be suitable for the vessel concerned. He shall also be solely, absolutely and exclusively liable as to the compatibility between the Marine Fuels stated and the Fuels that are on board the vessel prior to the supply. In connection therewith the Buyer hereby warrants that he has not relied upon any representations made by or on behalf of the Contracting Company but has relied exclusively on its own knowledge and judgment.

The measurements taken on board the vessel supplied shall not be binding on the Contracting Company.

3.5 Absent manifest error the Contracting Company's weights and measurements shall be presumed to correctly reflect the quantities delivered. However, without prejudice to such presumption, the Buyer or his accredited representative may witness and check such weights and measurements or may designate a duly certified independent expert, specialized in matters of control and supervision, to carry out the supervision at the Buyer's expense provided that the Contracting Company shall have agreed therewith in advance in writing.

The Contracting Company shall only observe the findings of the independent expert if the inspection was carried out in the presence of a duly authorized person of the Contracting Company.

No complaint or claim on the part of the Buyer with regard to the quantity of the Marine Fuels delivered shall be admissible unless made to the Contracting Company or its representative and not on the delivery receipt at the time of the delivery and confirmed in writing received by the Contracting Company within 30 days after completion of delivery.

4.3 The Contracting Company shall take three representative samples of each grade of Marine Fuels delivered. The Buyer or Buyer's accredited representative shall be at liberty to witness the sampling. One sealed sample shall be handed to the Master of the vessel receiving the Marine Fuels such that in the event of a dispute relating to fuel quality the Buyer can send this sample to an independent fuel analysis company and the other one retained by the Contracting Company for 30 days from the date of delivery in a safe place where it will not deteriorate. At the end of the said 30 day period the remaining sample may be discarded unless the Buyer has made a complaint or claim under Clause 4.5 within the said 30 days, in which case this sample will be retained by the Contracting Company for analysis by the expert referred to in Clause 4.6.

4.4 Unless expressly stated to the contrary in the Commitment, the Contracting Company may blend the Marine Fuels, and/or add or inject due, and/or add additives to the Marine Fuels on board the vessel during and/or after loading. In that case, the risk and title shall remain with the Contracting Company and shall pass to Buyer upon its certification. Such blending, dying or addition or injection of additives shall not constitute a breach of the purchase agreement by the Contracting Company.

4.5 Any complaint or claim on the part of the Buyer with regard to the quality of the Marine Fuels delivered under a Commitment can only be made if the Buyer or his representative has witnessed the measurement and must be made in writing to the Contracting Company as soon as possible under description of full details of the claim with supporting evidence and in any event within 7 days after the date of the delivery in default of which the Buyer shall be deemed to have waived all complaints or claims in relation to the quality of the Marine Fuels so delivered.

4.6 Any dispute as to the quality of Marine Fuels delivered under a Commitment shall, save for in instances of manifest error or fraud, be determined finally and conclusively by analysis of a representative sample of the Marine Fuels referred to in Clause 4.3 by an expert appointed jointly by the Buyer and the Contracting Company or, if they cannot agree to such an appointment, then an expert appointed by the President for the time being of the Energy Institute. In the case of quality disputes, the expert shall be requested to analyze one or more of the quality samples taken in accordance with clause 4.3 above and where possible, base his or her decision upon the results thereof.
